

Capitol Connection Q&A for Contractors
By Shauna Krause, President, Capitol Services, Inc.

I repeat, due to COVID-19, all individuals living in the State of California are currently ordered to stay home or at their place of residence, except for permitted work, local shopping or other permitted errand, or as otherwise authorized. In response, the CSLB has closed all public counters and testing centers for at least three weeks, which means all exam applications will be delayed. Here's another installment on new law in 2021...

More from the CSLB-

SB 1189 \(McGuire\): Creates a new classification of contracting business called "residential remodeling contracting," which is defined as projects that make improvements to, on, or in an existing residential wood frame structure that use at least three unrelated building trades or crafts for a single contract; a list of trades is included in the bill. The bill also includes in the definition of "home improvement" the reconstruction, restoration, or rebuilding of residential property damaged or destroyed by a disaster for which either the governor or president has declared a state of emergency. The bill also expands the type of contracting activity in a declared disaster zone for which a person without a contractor license can be prosecuted. (Chapter 364, Statutes of 2020)

SB 1474 \(Committee on Business, Professions and Economic Development\): Requires the CSLB registrar to retroactively reinstate an expired contractor license if a completed license renewal application is received with the appropriate fees within 90 days of the license expiration date. It also makes several minor, technical, non-substantive changes to the law. (Chapter 312, Statutes of 2020)

From the mailbag!

Q: My company's license was suspended due to a civil judgement. The CSLB informed me that we would be required to comply with the decision and we would also need to obtain a 'disciplinary' bond. Does the Disciplinary Bond take the place of our $15,000 Contractor's Bond or is it in addition to our Contractor's bond? How long do we need to keep the extra bond in place?

A: A disciplinary bond is filed in addition to, and does not replace any of the other bonds required for the license. It is my understanding that Disciplinary Bonds are to be in place for two years, however in certain instances the Registrar may require a longer period.

Q: You may remember we are a Texas corporation and you helped us get our California license years ago. We only had a couple projects in CA and we let the license expire. We are now ready to come back to California and do some work. How do we go about getting our license again? Do we need to start from scratch?

A: We, of course, remember you! We are always ready to help new faces and old friends. No, you do not need to start over! Since it has been less than five years since your license expired, you can still renew it. You are required to submit a Renewal Application, pay the delinquent (Active) fee of $600, and provide a new Bond and proof of Worker's Compensation Insurance (if you still have employees). Don't forget the Covid rules have closed public counters and exam centers thru the end of 2020 so some delay can be expected.

INTRODUCTION

A close call has been defined as an unplanned event that did not result in injury, illness, or damage- but had the potential to do so. Close calls should be taken as a golden opportunity or “lesson learned” to prevent accidents in the future.

If you find yourself making one of the following statements, you might be witnessing a close call:

- “I almost had an accident, but didn’t.”
- “Wow! That was close.”
- “That could have easily hurt someone.”

A PROACTIVE APPROACH TO CLOSE CALLS

- Paying attention to close calls can identify trends where protection is missing or could be improved
- Close calls can be used to monitor changes in safety over time.
- Monitoring close calls can uncover hidden conditions previously not exposed by looking at reportable accidents alone.
- Reporting close calls to your supervisor could improve safety issues in the future.
- Close calls are wake up calls.
- Close the first time could be deadly the second time.
- If you know there is a hazard, make sure everyone else knows.
- Your close call could save someone else from having a serious accident.
- Inspect your work area daily for unsafe conditions or actions.

REPORTING CLOSE CALLS

Reporting close calls is needed in order to collect and share information on incidents that could have resulted in an injury, property damage or the release of environmental hazards. Reporting will allow your company to identify conditions that will aid in the prevention of a similar occurrence. If you witness or participate in an event which compromises or threatens to compromise the health and safety of a person or the environment, please notify your supervisor.

RECOMMENDED PROCEDURES

- Identification: Understand what a close call is so when it happens you can report it.
- Disclosure: Report the close call as soon as possible.
 - o Who the accident would have potentially impacted
 - o Where the close call happened
 - o The type of safety concern (i.e. unsafe act, unsafe condition, unsafe equipment, etc.)
- Prioritization: Decide if the event needs immediate attention and analysis.
- Distribution: Give the information in the report to whoever is in charge of analyzing it.
- Identification of Causes: Find out why the event happened.
- Solution Identification: Find out what to do to make sure the event does not happen again
- Dissemination: Give the information to everyone who is affected by it: the person who reported the event, the people who work in the area or with the machine, and the person who will be in charge of making the solution a reality.
- Follow up: Make sure the changes actually happen and the workplace is made safer.

CONCLUSION

Accidents may be preceded by close calls that warn us of a safety problem. When safe outcomes do occur, there is nothing to capture anyone's attention: safety is invisible. Close calls can provide information that poses the greatest safety risk.
