Does experience gained with a foreign 'accent' count here at home? My expert second opinion rights an inadvertent 'wrong' and helps prevent another mistake. While some questions are easy to learn from, sometimes more information or space to answer may be required so I always welcome your call or call back! ...

Q: I currently live in Spain, but I'm originally from the States. My company wants me to move back (and frankly, I do too) and manage work that's been proposed in CA. The catch is, I've been living here for over ten years. I have been an Engineering Contractor all of my life and while working in Spain I have been overseeing projects and managing all of the work being done, however I haven't actually done any of the work for quite some time. My company wants me to be the license holder in CA. I have a college degree too if that means anything. Does the CSLB consider work done outside of the United States, or does your experience have to be from California in order to get licensed?

A: The CSLB absolutely accepts experience gained outside of the USA, however it may take some additional documentation. The State of California welcomes all Contractors and will issue Contractor's licenses as long as the experience is backed up, possibly with W-2's (or the equivalent) or permits (if they required them where your experience was gained), or some other type of documentation.

Q: Is it true that a Vice President cannot be a Responsible Managing Officer (RMO) on a California contractor license? I called the CSLB today to clarify how to fill out an application form and was told that the only Officers they allow to be RMO's are President, Treasurer and Secretary. According to what I was told, our Vice President is going to have to be listed as a Responsible Managing Employee (RME) on our license. In previous years we have had Vice Presidents as RMO's, so we were surprised today to find out that is not allowed. Is this a new policy, or were we never actually allowed to have VP's as RMO's?

A: That is absolutely not a new policy, nor a correct one. The call center is usually very good at giving out accurate information, but it is like any other agency where you may need a second opinion. A company can have as many Vice Presidents as they want without them being listed with the Secretary of State. The CSLB needs your personnel to match what is listed at the Secretary of State level, so it's likely the person you spoke with was referring to the fact that "Officers" need to match the Secretary of State filing. And because the Secretary of State is only concerned with President, Secretary, and Treasurer, and not Vice Presidents, that's where the disconnect happened. BUT you should absolutely not list your RMO/Vice President as an RME. That would not be appropriate.

Q: I have a Contractor's license with a 'dba' (doing business as). I'm going to be selling my 'dba' side, but I want to keep my corporation intact and still be able to do business. Can you help me with the process?

A: I can help you with the process, for sure, however I need to know more background with regards to the sale. For example, are you only selling the use of the dba name (in which case I cannot answer whether or not that's even possible)? Will it be a stock sale or an asset sale? And all that being said, are you selling the corporation or just the use of the name? Let's talk!

Nevada County based Amvic-Pacific offers this seminar for contractors, architects, engineers and building officials interested in learning how to use ICFs (Insulating Concrete Forms) to construct the exterior shell of a residential or commercial structure.

This class will be taught in a one day split format with the morning session covering introduction, features, and benefits of ICF construction. The afternoon session covers installation of ICF, integrating other trades, below grade applications, and basic estimating and construction details.

This class will be a mix of instructor-led class room presentations and hands-on-demonstration of the basics of construction of residential and light commercial structures using insulating concrete forms (ICF) for the exterior wall system. Also covered will be instruction in using insulating concrete forms (ICF) in the construction of floors and/ or roofs.

What the Course Covers

Morning Session (8:30am-11:30am, Refreshments provided)

- Introduction to building with ICF
- Features & Benefits of ICF construction :
 - Energy-efficiency
 - Fire resistance,
 - Sound resistance
 - Durability
- Efficiency in Construction and performance
- Advantages of ICF construction with current building code

- Local products and services available

Afternoon Session: (11:30am-4:30pm, Lunch will be provided)

- Tools required for installation
- Footing types and preparation
- Basics of block installation and assembly
- Rebar placement & installation
- Window and door installation
- Top plate/sill & truss/rafter attachment
- Bracing and pouring ICF walls
- Forming & pouring elevated concrete floors/roofs using ICF
- Utility installation: electrical & plumbing
- Below grade installation and waterproofing
- Multi-story applications
- Wall claddings (drywall, stucco, siding, etc.)

Here's what one participant had to say:

"We completed our first pour a week or so back and I'm happy to say it was a great success. As you know I am an owner builder with little background in construction. Thanks to your very thorough workshop and excellent step-by-step supporting materials in addition to your personal support of our project we have been able to take on the construction of our 2 story, 2600 sq foot home. Apart from help on the day of the pour itself, my wife and I did all the ICF block work ourselves. There was a learning curve, but we were patient, paid attention to your good advice, and lo and behold it can all be done with two novices! We think the key to avoiding mishaps was simply following the recommended process and lessons learned from your training."

INTRODUCTION

There are many potential hazards when working on construction sites. These hazards can also be avoided if proper precautions are taken and safe work practices are observed. Wearing proper PPE, carefully inspecting tools and being aware of your surroundings are vital elements to maintain a safe work environment.

WHAT NOT TO DO

- Employees should never come to work under the influence of drugs and alcohol.
- Employees should never eat in areas where hazardous chemicals are present.
- Employees should avoid the following activities:
 - Horseplay
 - Scuffling
 - Any act that could compromise the safety of any employee.

WHAT TO DO

- A daily inspection of all work areas, tools and equipment.
- Report any unsafe work conditions and equipment to the supervisor or safety coordinator.
- Report any incident, injury, or illness to your supervisor or safety coordinator.
- Follow all Safety Data Sheet (SDS) instructions and wash hands thoroughly after handling dangerous substances.
- All cleaning solvents and flammable liquids should be stored in appropriate, labeled containers.

PERSONAL PROTECTIVE EQUIPMENT (PPE)

Appropriate footwear should be worn (work boots).

- Gloves should be worn when handling hazardous material.
- Hardhats are mandatory and should be worn on all jobsites.
- Safety glasses/goggles should be worn when conditions that can be hazardous to the eyes exist.
- Ear protection should be worn when there is a risk of exposure to loud noises.

SAFE WORK PRACTICES

- Only properly grounded electrical tools should be used, if insulation is frayed or deteriorated, discontinue use.
- Tools should be in good working order, faulty or worn tools should not be used.
- Only trained and authorized employees should operate machinery or equipment.
- Employees should be familiar with the location of all exits, alarms, fire extinguishers, first aid kits, and telephones.
- Hand carts or other handling equipment should be used to move heavy loads.
- Employees should assist each other, especially new employees in safely performing their work.
- Warning signs should be obeyed at ALL times.
- Safety devices should not be modified.
- Get help lifting when the load is too heavy to handle alone.

CONCLUSION

Safety on a construction site is everybody's responsibility. Following the established guidelines set forth by the company, as well as these safe work practices will help to ensure the safety of every employee.
