

President Biden Directs OSHA to Step Up COVID-19 Guidance and Enforcement

by Cari Elofson-Callahan

President Biden has directed OSHA to step up its guidance and enforcement efforts as part of his National Strategy for COVID-19 Response and Pandemic Preparedness. The President issued an Executive Order on Protecting Worker Health and Safety directing OSHA to issue revised non-binding guidance for employers and to release temporary emergency rules by March 15 if the agency determines they are necessary.

In addition to directing OSHA to issue revised guidance and consider adopting emergency rules, the President's order requires OSHA to:

- Review enforcement efforts related to COVID-19 and identify any short, medium and long-term changes to better protect workers and ensure equity in enforcement,
- Launch a national program to focus OSHA enforcement efforts on COVID-19-related violations that put the largest number of workers at serious risk or that violate the Occupational Safety and Health Act's ("OSHA Act") anti-retaliation principles, and
- Coordinate with the Department of Labor's public affairs office and OSHA's regional offices to develop and deliver a multilingual outreach campaign informing employees and their unions of their rights, with emphasis on communities hit hardest by the pandemic.

The President's order will require OSHA to issue science-based guidance to help keep workers safe from COVID-19 exposure, including mask-wearing; partner with State and local governments to better protect public employees; enforce worker health and safety requirements; and push for additional resources to help employers protect employees.

OSHA's primary pandemic response over the last year has focused on issuing a series of non-binding, industry-specific guidance documents as well as providing a wide range of COVID-19 resources on the OSHA website. As of Jan. 8, OSHA had levied $3.93 million in penalties in about 300 pandemic-related cases.

Cari Elofson-Callahan is the Assistant Director of the OSHA Training Institute Education Center at Chabot-Las Positas Community College District. OTIEC at CLPCCD has been authorized by OSHA since 2008 to deliver high quality OSHA standards-based training for construction, maritime, disaster site and general industries at our San Francisco Bay Area (Dublin) location as well as other locations in Northern, Central and Southern California, Nevada, Arizona, Hawaii, Guam and American Samoa. The recommendations in this article are advisory in nature, informational in content, and are intended to assist employers in providing a safe and healthful workplace. INTRODUCTION

The proper securing of ladders is a vital element in reducing or eliminating very common ladder related accidents. OSHA estimates that more than 90,000 people go to the emergency room every year, due to ladder related injuries. OSHA also believes that 100% of ladder accidents could have been prevented with proper attention to equipment and better training.

SETUP

Setting up the ladder is perhaps the most important step in ladder safety. The following tips are highly recommended. During set up the footing should be:

- Kept level by digging out the ground or using ladder levelers. On hard ground the feet of the ladder should be rested flat and free of debris.
- On grass or soft ground the feet could be flipped up and the spiked ends driven into the ground.
- The ladder should be positioned at a 75-degree angle.
- Secure the base of the ladder to prevent accidental movement by using one or more of the following:
 - o Using a ladder with non-slip feet.
 - o Nail a cleat to the floor.
 - o Anchoring the ladder at the base with a strap or rope.

SECURING METHODS

The following methods are used to secure ladders:

- Using a cleat- Installing a cleat behind the feet of the ladder can prevent the ladder from slipping.
- Using a ladder stabilizer- This is especially essential when working around large windows.
- Tie off the ladder top- This can be done by attaching eye screws to a 2x4, then attaching the 2x4 to the fascia. Tie the ladder to the eye screws to avoid the top of the ladder slipping.

SECURING LADDERS

OSHA REQUIREMENTS

- A metal spreader or locking device should be provided on each stepladder to hold the front and back sections in an open position when the ladder is being used.
- Ladders should be used only on stable and level surfaces unless secured to prevent accidental displacement.
- Ladders should not be used on slippery surfaces unless secured or provided with slip-resistant feet to prevent accidental displacement.
- Extension ladders should always extend 3 feet above the point of contact when a person could potentially be walking on the surface.

CONCLUSION

Falls from ladders can be easily prevented with adherence to safe work practices and proper training. Proper placement, inspection and securing of ladders are also key factors in safety and fall prevention.
