

Capitol Connection Q&A for Contractors
By Shauna Krause, President, Capitol Services, Inc.

You might become a 'consultant' but like swimming it's likely you need a license when getting in the deep water. Another contractor helps illustrate how taking a license test can make a big 'reciprocal' difference in extending your reach into other states, or not!

Q: I originally obtained my license many years ago and as my business grew, I formed a Corporation and continued growing it over the years and eventually sold the shares and was able to "retire". I'm considering acting as a Construction consultant now, but I know my qualification is long expired and I'm not willing to go through testing and what not. I would like to be able to supervise construction for Home Owners (mostly people I know) and advise them on hiring subs, etc. Am I correct that I don't need a Contractor's License for that, right?

A: Not necessarily. That is somewhat of a gray area, but consultants who supervise all of the construction and hiring subcontractors are technically acting in the capacity of a Contractor and do require a license issued by the CSLB.

Q: I am licensed in California with a "B" General Building, "C-39" Roofing, "C-10" Electrical, and "C-20" HVAC license. I want to get the same licenses in Arizona and take advantage of the Reciprocal agreement. I already requested the documentation from the CSLB for the "License by Endorsement" proof. If I understand correctly, I am going to have to show that I took the equivalent exams in CA. I remember that I definitely took the General Building, Roofing, and HVAC exams, but I had an electrician work for me for five years with his license/qualification, and after the five years I was able to replace him as the "C-10" qualifier by a Waiver of the Trade exam. If the reciprocity will not work for the Electrical license, will my "B" General license cover me to do everything?

A: You are correct in that you need to show that you've taken and passed the equivalent exam in one of the reciprocal States, so being that you secured a Waiver of the "C-10", you will not qualify for Reciprocity for the Electrical license. The "B" license in Arizona allows you to contract for work which involves trades related to building a structure from the ground up. HOWEVER, you cannot self-perform electrical work without the specialty license. With a General Building license, all work related to electrical, plumbing, air conditioning systems, boilers, swimming pools, spas and water wells must be subcontracted to an appropriately licensed Contractor if you do not have that particular specialty license.

INTRODUCTION

All employers are required to provide bathroom and washing facilities for their employees to use during the course of their work shift. Bathroom and washing facilities help protect employees against diseases that they could encounter from bacteria, viruses, or the work environment. Unsanitary or lack of bathroom and washing facilities could result in sickness or injury to employees, which could result in loss of productivity and other consequences.

BATHROOM FACILITIES

20 or More Employees

When a construction site has twenty or more employees, employers should provide bathroom facilities that meet the following requirements:

- One set of facilities for every 20 employees.

Number of Toilets Per Employees
Number of Employees	Number of Facilities
20 or more	1 toilet seat and 1 urinal per 40 workers.
200 or more	1 toilet seat and 1 urinal per 50 workers.

- Facilities for both men and woman.
- Facilities should ensure the privacy for all employees.
- Be maintained in a clean and sanitary condition.
- Be properly stocked with toilet paper. Empty rolls should be replaced as soon as possible.

Note: Mobile crews that have transportation to nearby toilet facilities do not need to have facilities provided on site.

5 or Less Employees

When a construction site has five or less employees, employers should provide bathroom facilities that meet the following requirement:

- One facility that can be used by both men and women, provided the door can be locked from the inside.
 - Facilities with broken locks should not be used and should be replaced as soon as possible.
- Be maintained in a clean and sanitary condition.
- Be properly stocked with toilet paper. Empty rolls should be replaced as soon as possible.

Note: Crews of 5 or less employees may be provided with one toilet facility that has a washing area located within.

NON-PLUMBED TOILETS (NON-WATER CARRIAGE DISPOSAL FACILITIES)

When a jobsite does not have access to a sanitary sewer or has a lack of an adequate water supply, employers should provide one of the following options in toilet facilities, provided such facilities are not prohibited by local codes:

- Privies (where their use will not contaminate ground or surface water)
- Chemical toilets
- Recirculating toilets
- Combustion toilets

HAND WASHING FACILITIES

20 or More Employees

In addition to toilet facilities, employers who have twenty or more employees on the construction site should provide washing facilities that meet the following requirements:

- One washing station for every 20 employees.
- Be maintained in a clean and sanitary condition.
- Have an adequate supply of water for effective washing.
- Has soap available for employees to use when washing their hands.
- Has single-use towels or a warm-air blower available for employees to use to dry their hands.
- Be located and arranged so that any time a toilet is used, the user can readily wash their hands.

Non-Plumbed Toilets (Non-Water Carriage Disposal Facilities)

When a non-plumbed toilet (i.e. porta potty, combustion toilet, etc.) facility is provided in instances where there is no access to a sanitary sewer or there is a lack of an adequate water supply, employers should provide washing facilities that meet the following requirements:

- Has a sign or equivalent method of notice indicating that the water is intended for washing.
- Be located outside of the toilet facility.

Facilities for Employees Working with Paints, Coatings, or Other Harmful Substances

For employees who engage in the application of paints or coatings, or other harmful substances, employers should provide washing facilities that meet the following requirements:

- Be located in close proximity to the worksite and be equipped as to enable employees to remove such substances.
- Be maintained in a clean and sanitary condition.
- Have an adequate supply of water sufficient for effective removal of the hazardous substance from the skin.
- Have a readily available supply of soap, or when necessary, special cleansing compounds designed specifically for removal of the hazardous substance from the skin.
- Have a readily available supply of single-use towels or warm-air blower.

MANAGEMENT: CONSTRUCTION SITE SANITATION AND WASTE FACILITIES

SHOWERS

In the event that showering is required, employers should provide shower facilities that meet the following requirements:

- Have separate facilities for both female and male employees.
- At least one facility with hot and cold water feeding in a common discharge line for each ten employees.
- Crews of 5 employees or less may be provided one showering facility in the event that the facility can be locked from the inside.
- Be provided with body soap or other appropriate cleansing agents convenient to the shower.
- Be provided with individual clean towels.

CONCLUSION

Bathroom and washing facilities play a vital role in keeping employees safe and hygienic during their shift. Employers should ensure that all federal, state, and local requirements for bathroom and washing facilities are met, as improper or lack of facilities can lead to the spread of disease and could potentially result in lost time for both the employee and employer.
