

Capitol Connection Q&A for Contractors
By Shauna Krause, President, Capitol Services, Inc.

Let me introduce you to the new 'Norm' in NV and AZ. Meanwhile, in CA a reminder on changes to 'qualifying' for the old 'Norm'. As we all learn to adjust in these challenging times it's good to have an expert assist!...

Q: We are starting a new company which will be hiring an individual to Qualify for our Contractors license. We are still in discussion as to what role this person will take on. We understand as a Corporation, he can either be an RMO (Responsible Managing Officer) or an RME (Responsible Managing Employee). He (and our company as well) are concerned about his "exposure" to the public. We don't want to have him listed on our corporation with the Secretary of State, but we also aren't sure if he is going to be working at least 32 hours a week, as required of an RME. Is there a way to have him listed as an RMO with the licensing Board without listing him at the Secretary of State level?

A: There used to be a way to do that. In all the years I've been in business, the CSLB was only concerned with the President, Secretary, and Treasurer positions. Therefore, a Company could have an RMO with the title of "Vice President", etc. and there was no requirement for the individual to be listed with the Secretary of State on the Statement of Information. I just received word this week that the CSLB now requires all officers to be listed at the Secretary of State level to match the license application, regardless of Officer title.

Attention Nevada and Arizona Contractors:

As many of you are aware, due to the COVID-19 pandemic, many government operations were reduced or suspended making timely license renewals impractical or impossible. In response, Nevada State Governor, Steve Sisolak, extended all licenses and permits issued by the Nevada Board that were set to expire between March 12th, 2020 and June 30, 2020. The order deemed all Contractor's license falling within this category valid until September 28, 2020. Check your NV license and be sure it's up to date!

Similarly, in mid-March, PSI, the private testing company which provides testing services for Arizona (along with several other States), shut down nationwide due to the COVID-19 concerns. As a result, Contractors license applicants were unable to take the required exams needed to qualify for a license in Arizona. In response, Arizona Governor Ducey signed Executive Order 2020-17-Continuity of Work. Under this order, the Arizona Registrar of Contractors (ROC) was permitted to issue licenses on a "provisional" basis without requiring the test results. However, recipients of these licenses were required to pass the exam(s) as soon as practically possible, and in most cases provide the ROC with their official test date.

As of Friday, August 21, 2020, the ROC stopped accepting applications for provisional licenses due to testing centers re-opening. On our way back to the "new" norm, all Arizona Contractors license applicants need to take and pass the required exams prior to submitting a new license application.

While knowledge is power, knowing where to go for the answers is half the battle. FORKLIFT SAFETY

INTRODUCTION

A forklift, jitney, hi-lo or lift truck, is an industrial truck. It is designed to maneuver within industrial areas, with a variety of functions and purposes, such as lifting heavy machinery, crates and boxes, and removing stock off of racks and shelves. A forklift may be powered in several ways such as propane, electricity, gas and diesel.

GENERAL REQUIREMENTS

- All nameplates and markings must be in place.
- All modifications and additions which affect the safe operation and capacity must be approved by the manufacturer.
- Data labels must be changed accordingly.
- The approval must be in writing.
- If using front-end attachments, (other than the manufacturers'), the truck must be marked identifying the attachment and listing the approximate combined weight of the truck and attachment at maximum elevation with a centered load.

SAFE OPERATIONS

Forklifts must be inspected at the beginning of every shift. It is a requirement that inspections are performed and that you do not operate a defective unit. Operating a defective unit may result in damage or serious injury if the brakes, steering, or fuel, (especially propane) systems are not working properly. An inspection checklist should be provided to you by your supervisor. The following items need to be visually inspected before using any forklift:

Tires.

- Horn and/or other warning devices
- Controller(s)
- Brakes (operation and leaks)
- Steering (operation and leaks)
- Cooling System (operation and leaks)
- Lift System (operation and leaks)
- Exhaust System (operation and leaks)
 - Fuel System
 - Battery
 - Propane (system must not have any leaks.)
 - Gas (system must not have any leaks)

Any mechanical problem discovered during the inspection should be reported and the lift should be placed out-of-service.

Only trained mechanics should do any repairs to the forklift.

- Adding oil, water or other fluids may be done by the operator, once they have been trained to do so.
- Adding fuel to propane powered forklifts and battery acid to electric powered units requires that you be trained to do so and that you know the hazards of these chemicals.

FORKLIFT SAFETY

LOADING AND UNLOADING

- Is the load stable or will parts slide or fall during transit?
- Do the dimensions and weight of the load fall within the capacity rating of the forklift at the highest elevation and extension? If not, break the load into smaller parts.
- When you pick up the load:
 - Move squarely into position in front of the load.
 - Position the forks wide apart to keep the load balanced.
 - Drive the forks fully under the load.
 - Tilt the mast backward slightly to stabilize the load and lift.
- Check the destination before you place the load.
 - Is the destination flat and stable — or, will the load rock, tilt or lean?
 - Never place heavy loads on top of light loads.
 - Observe maximum stacking quantities and orientation if printed on cartons.
 - Know the load bearing capacity of your rack or storage loft destination.
 - Check rack legs or support members to make sure they are not bent or disconnected.
 - Are racks arranged back to back with a stock behind where you will place the load? (Someone may need to be in the next aisle to control access while you place the load.)
 - Are wooden stringers or decking laid between front and rear rack beams in good condition?
 - If you are stacking, are other pallets in the stack in good condition and capable of supporting the load in addition to what they are already supporting?
- When you place the load at its destination:
 - Move squarely into position in front of the rack or stack where the load will be placed.
 - When ready to place the load, tilt the mast to level. Only tilt forward when the load is over the spot where it will be placed.
 - Lower the forks and back away.
 - Visually verify that the load is stable.

CONCLUSION

A forklift is a powerful tool when used by a well-trained operator. It helps to move materials and can reduce the risk of back injury by eliminating the need to lift and carry items by hand. Perform inspections before each use.

- Always wear your seatbelt when operating a forklift.
- Drive slowly, with your eyes on the road, watching for pedestrians, obstacles, and road surfaces.
- Take turns slow and wide, sound the horn at intersections; stop if necessary.
- Take precautions when refueling or handling batteries.
- Do not overload a forklift.
- Do not use a damaged or unsafe forklift.
