

Capitol Connection Q&A for Contractors
By Shauna Krause, President, Capitol Services, Inc.

Week of 2/1/2021

An urgent appeal on the 'fly', more 'suspense' and a happy ending! Let's start with what's ending...

CSLB COVID-19 update: Good news test center closures are ending! Things are looking up for Contractor's license applicants waiting for a test date. The CSLB testing centers re-open on February 1st. Priority dates will depend on when the applicant's date was canceled, but the CSLB will be contacting candidates to schedule new exam dates. They will even be offering evening times based on staff availability in certain locations.

Q: Our Contractor's License expires at the end of March and we received the renewal notice from the CSLB. I rarely look up our license online, but I happened to look it up when I received the renewal and I saw a notation on the online status, stating "before this license can be renewed active or inactive, the Secretary of State status must be returned to Active". I then looked at our status with the Secretary of State online, and it shows "Suspended". I tried to call the Secretary of State, but the recording said there were 41 people ahead of me. So, in an effort to receive a quicker response, do you know why we would be "Suspended"?

A: "Suspended" with the Secretary of State usually means one of two things. Either you haven't filed a Statement of Information in a timely manner, OR you are delinquent with the Franchise Tax Board, meaning you either haven't filed tax returns timely or haven't paid the full amount due.

The CSLB will always check your Secretary of State status to make sure it is "Active" before renewing a license.

Q: My Illinois based company wants me to take the NASCLA exam for the purpose of Qualifying their licenses in several States. I know you handle licensing in Nevada, and I read up on the qualifications for Reciprocity and the different classifications. I read the NASCLA exam is only reciprocal with the "General Building" classification, however in order to qualify for the full "B", you need to have experience working on structures over three stories in height, which I do not, nor do any other employees of the company. Our goal is to obtain the "B-2" (Residential and Small Commercial) license. Will the NASCLA exam still be acceptable for Reciprocity, or will I need to take NV's trade exam as well?

A: The NASCLA exam will cover you for Reciprocity for the "B-2" as well, you can contact me to assist with the necessary documentation you will need to provide to Qualify. I look forward to hearing from you!

And finally, the state's second largest volunteer wildlife rehab group took a direct hit from the recent high winds and storm in the Sacramento area. They rely on a barn sized, aviary flight cage to help rehab birds, test fly, before return to the environment. They are asking for emergency assistance in replacing the structure crucial to saving thousands of birds each season. The unexpected costs are a big hit on the volunteer's budget. The flight cage is a critical and immediate need as busy season is beginning in just a few weeks. Volunteers can contact them at volunteers@wildlifecareassociation.com. Contractors time and material donations are an in-kind donation to the non-profit volunteers and tax deductible, as that season is also just around the corner.

While knowledge is power, knowing where to go for the answers is half the battle. Get expert assistance immediately when you call 866-443-0657, email info@cutredtape.com, or write us at Capitol Services, Inc., 3609 Bradshaw Rd, Ste H, #343, Sacramento, CA 95827. FORKLIFT SAFETY

INTRODUCTION

A forklift, jitney, hi-lo or lift truck, is an industrial truck. It is designed to maneuver within industrial areas, with a variety of functions and purposes, such as lifting heavy machinery, crates and boxes, and removing stock off of racks and shelves. A forklift may be powered in several ways such as propane, electricity, gas and diesel.

GENERAL REQUIREMENTS

- All nameplates and markings must be in place.
- All modifications and additions which affect the safe operation and capacity must be approved by the manufacturer.
- Data labels must be changed accordingly.
- The approval must be in writing.
- If using front-end attachments, (other than the manufacturers'), the truck must be marked identifying the attachment and listing the approximate combined weight of the truck and attachment at maximum elevation with a centered load.

SAFE OPERATIONS

Forklifts must be inspected at the beginning of every shift. It is a requirement that inspections are performed and that you do not operate a defective unit. Operating a defective unit may result in damage or serious injury if the brakes, steering, or fuel, (especially propane) systems are not working properly. An inspection checklist should be provided to you by your supervisor. The following items need to be visually inspected before using any forklift:

Tires.

- Horn and/or other warning devices
- Controller(s)
- Brakes (operation and leaks)
- Steering (operation and leaks)
- Cooling System (operation and leaks)
- Lift System (operation and leaks)
- Exhaust System (operation and leaks)
 - Fuel System
 - Battery
 - Propane (system must not have any leaks.)
 - Gas (system must not have any leaks)

Any mechanical problem discovered during the inspection should be reported and the lift should be placed out-of-service.

Only trained mechanics should do any repairs to the forklift.

- Adding oil, water or other fluids may be done by the operator, once they have been trained to do so.
- Adding fuel to propane powered forklifts and battery acid to electric powered units requires that you be trained to do so and that you know the hazards of these chemicals.

LOADING AND UNLOADING

- Is the load stable or will parts slide or fall during transit?
- Do the dimensions and weight of the load fall within the capacity rating of the forklift at the highest elevation and extension? If not, break the load into smaller parts.
- When you pick up the load:
 - Move squarely into position in front of the load.
 - Position the forks wide apart to keep the load balanced.
 - Drive the forks fully under the load.
 - Tilt the mast backward slightly to stabilize the load and lift.
- Check the destination before you place the load.
 - Is the destination flat and stable — or, will the load rock, tilt or lean?
 - Never place heavy loads on top of light loads.
 - Observe maximum stacking quantities and orientation if printed on cartons.
 - Know the load bearing capacity of your rack or storage loft destination.
 - Check rack legs or support members to make sure they are not bent or disconnected.
 - Are racks arranged back to back with a stock behind where you will place the load? (Someone may need to be in the next aisle to control access while you place the load.)
 - Are wooden stringers or decking laid between front and rear rack beams in good condition?
 - If you are stacking, are other pallets in the stack in good condition and capable of supporting the load in addition to what they are already supporting?
- When you place the load at its destination:
 - Move squarely into position in front of the rack or stack where the load will be placed.
 - When ready to place the load, tilt the mast to level. Only tilt forward when the load is over the spot where it will be placed.
 - Lower the forks and back away.
 - Visually verify that the load is stable.

CONCLUSION

A forklift is a powerful tool when used by a well-trained operator. It helps to move materials and can reduce the risk of back injury by eliminating the need to lift and carry items by hand. Perform inspections before each use.

- Always wear your seatbelt when operating a forklift.
- Drive slowly, with your eyes on the road, watching for pedestrians, obstacles, and road surfaces.
- Take turns slow and wide, sound the horn at intersections; stop if necessary.
- Take precautions when refueling or handling batteries.
- Do not overload a forklift.
- Do not use a damaged or unsafe forklift.
