

Capitol Connection Q&A for Contractors By Shauna Krause, President, Capitol Services, Inc.

Week of 3/1/2021

Can we talk? Of course, assisting contractors for more than 30 years begins with a conversation. Sometimes it's a question I've never been asked, and for another contractor it's a common concern shared by many over the years with Capitol Services, Inc. Of course, that conversation often now begins with an email...

Q: We recently obtained a new license for our Corporation with a Qualifying Individual who was previously licensed with a Sole Owner license. We filled out the form titled "Request for License Number Reissuance" and marked the box indicating we did want his Sole Owner license re-issued. The CSLB issued us a new number! When I called, the person I spoke with at the CSLB stated that because our Qualifier's license was Expired, they are unable to re-issue it, quoting B&P Section 7075.1. I re-read Section 7075.1 of the Business and Professions Code and the statute indicates that a "license number may be reissued after cancellation, revocation, suspension, or expiration" under the identified circumstances. Therefore, I don't follow the reasoning the technician provided because the statute expressly permits the reissuance of an expired license number. Do you have someone you can talk to at the CSLB to get clarification?

A: Yes, do! The key in this statute is "under the identified circumstances". If you read further along in the statute, it identifies the parameters where your request would be permissible. Sole Owner license numbers are always offered back to the applicant as long as it's the same person. The "Request for License Number Reissuance" form specifically states the license number has to be in good standing to reissue to a corporation. The only way you could have accomplished the scenario you described is if your Qualifier would have re-applied for a Sole Owner license again, requested the number back, and then re-applied with the Corporation to have it re-issued.

Q: I have a question about a Partnership license, I know they can be tricky. If a General Partner of a Limited Partnership license (not the qualifying Partner) wants to transfer their interest to an irrevocable trust (in his name), would it be considered a "re-structuring" and therefore require a new Contractor's license?

A: I've actually never been asked that before! In this instance there would not need to be any changes to the Contractor's license.

Q: We are a Franchisor looking to expand our Franchisee business in California. Currently, we have about 25 licensed Franchisees. Our organization has many prospective Franchisees looking to obtain their license, however, while they will be required to go through our training program and most are college educated, they will lack the experience to qualify to be their own RMO initially. Is this something you've dealt with and are willing to discuss the possibilities and options we have?

A: Yes, we deal with this situation all the time and I am always here for guidance so please feel free to call my office anytime! Or email...

INTRODUCTION

Power tools are such a normal part of our lives we sometimes forget to take the proper precautions for our safety, resulting in injuries ranging from eye injuries to electrocution. The following are helpful tips for power tool safety.

Don't operate a tool unless you have been trained and understand about how to use it.

INSPECTION

You should always inspect every tool before you use it. Look for:

- Missing parts (such as safety guards)
- Loose or dull blades
- Cuts in plug and cord insulation
- Defects or cracks in the tool housing
- Problems with guards and safety shut-off switches

If you do find something wrong with the tools, remove them from service and label them "Do Not Use" until repairs are made.

CLOTHING AND GEAR

What gear you use depends on the type of tool you are using. Be sure to follow the owner's manual. Common protective gear includes:

- Gloves
- Ear plugs
- Eye protection

DO NOT wear loose or baggy clothing or jewelry- it may get caught in the tool and cause damage to you or the tool

WORK AREA

- Be sure the work area is free of clutter and well lit
- Be especially mindful of flammable materials and rags- sparks from the tool could start a fire
- Try not to use the tools in wet and conductive locations, but if you do, be sure the tools are grounded

USING THE TOOL

- Know where the emergency shutoff switch is
- Do NOT use the tool for anything else other than what it was designed for
- Keep all people not involved with the work at a safe distance from the work area
- Do not hold fingers on the switch when carrying the tool
- Keep good balance and posture while using the tool
- Know where the cords are to avoid tripping or cutting the cord

AFTER USE

- Do NOT carry the tool by its cord
- Store the tool in a safe place
- Sharpen and clean the tools- follow the owner's instructions

CONCLUSION

When working with power tools, remember:

- Don't operate a tool unless you know how to use it
- Inspect the tool before you use it
- Wear proper clothing and gear
- Prepare your work area
- Use the tool properly and be aware of your surroundings
- Safely store the tool until next time
