

Capitol Connection Q&A for Contractors
By Shauna Krause, President, Capitol Services, Inc.

Speak up, it's your opportunity for input, because contractors have their cards on the 'table'. Another contractor has gotten the 'cart before the horse' so to speak, while a license applicant will have to delay his travel plan until he's told 'when' to get moving...

Q: Do you know if there is a data table of licensed contractor's that is available for use for marketing purposes?

A: The CSLB has a very helpful link on their website where you can see a list of licensed contractors based on zip code, city, or license classification.

Q: We have two Qualifiers on our license, one for the "A" (General Engineering classification), and one for the "C-10" (Electrical) classification. Both these Responsible Managing Officers (RMO) switched over to one of our Sister companies in order to obtain the license more expeditiously. Now we have a deadline to replace them on our license of 10/10/xx. We have employees in mind, but while we are going through the selection process, is there any way to get an extension on that deadline?

A: As you are aware, when a Qualifier leaves/disassociates from a license, your company has 90 days to replace them. The CSLB does allow for a one time 90-day extension, however in order to get that approved, you must have the replacement Application in process. If you make the request before you have the replacement paperwork submitted, the request will be denied.

Q: We are an Oregon contractor and we are interested in obtaining a California Contractor License. The President of the company will be the RMO and he was wondering if it's possible to get a list of available test dates so he can make a plan as to when he will come to California.

A: The CSLB administers the exams Monday thru Friday so there is no list of test dates. Once you submit your application, the CSLB will review it and schedule him a test date. Currently, you will likely be notified of the exam date about 4-6 weeks after your application is submitted and they schedule them about three out.

Q: I had issues with my Contractor's License years ago that resulted in my license being revoked. I've been going back and forth with the CSLB ever since trying to get my license re-instated. It's been a very frustrating process. My attorney suggested I contact one of the CSLB Board members directly. I was curious if the CSLB has regular meetings the public can attend and if so, is there an opportunity for the public to speak?

A: They sure do. The CSLB meetings are open to the public (except when specifically noted otherwise). The meetings have a "public comment session" where you can address the Board. The next Board meeting is on September 24, 2019 in Chico. Good luck!

Building Department Update from Craig Griesbach, County of Nevada

Attached is some information to include in your next newsletter:

Now is the time of year where everyone is scrambling to get their projects either finished or weatherized prior to the arrival of winter weather. This can be a stressful time as you are getting pressure from clients, you are fighting against the clock, you may be waiting on permit approval, and/or you are trying to get inspections scheduled. During this time of year the Building Department is inundated with project plans and inspection requests. Here are a few tips when scheduling inspections:

- Schedule inspections 2-3 days in advance when possible.
- If an emergency or there is a specific need reach out to Building Department staff if you are unable to schedule an inspection on a specific date. We will do our best to accommodate requests when possible.
- Make short and concise notes in inspection request notes area (AM/PM requests, gate codes, & other job specifics).
- Leave the actual contact phone number for someone onsite when possible for inspection requests.
- If you need to cancel inspections contact our office by 8am the morning of the inspection.
- Save the "Today's Inspections" link in the favorites on your phone or computer. This gives you the inspection timeframe, assigned inspector and other inspection information within seconds without having to call our office. This is available by 8am every day (usually sooner).

Now is the time of year when projects need to start thinking about and installing erosion control measures on their sites. With the early rain our area has received this year it has made it that much more important to stress that this is completed. Prior to any rain event erosion control measures need to be installed on construction sites per the project plans and minimum code requirements. The building inspectors will be emphasizing this when they are on construction sites. If you have questions regarding these requirements pick the inspectors brains when they are onsite and they will do their best to point you in the right direction. Reference our Erosion and Sediment Control Plan handout for more information.

Lastly, the 2019 California Building Standards Codes are upon us. They will be effective January 1, 2020. I know, I know, regulations never end! We will do our best to help guide you through any substantial changes, provide new code handouts/information, and host code change workshops this fall and winter. Look for future information from NCCA regarding these workshop event notices. On the positive side of these changes this is the probably the most mellow code change year we've seen in over a decade regarding the type/number of changes throughout the standards. As always, if you are having issues or need help please don't hesitate to reach out to our department directly.

INTRODUCTION

Working alone is sometimes more hazardous than doing the same job with other people. If an accident occurs, a “lone worker” must worry about getting themselves to safety and calling for help at the same time. If you perform all or parts of your job by yourself, you are required to follow the basic safety guidelines involved.

SAFETY CONCERNS

- Single persons working in public are more vulnerable to assault than a group of people are.
- Single persons working in the wilderness are more vulnerable to animal predators.
- A single worker may be less likely to see impending hazards.
- A single worker will have greater difficulty getting help if an injury or entrapment occurs.

SAFE WORK PRACTICES

The risk of working alone is dependent on the location, whether the work is risky or not, and whether or not there is involvement with the public. Lone workers who work with electricity, dangerous substances, or powerful equipment must be especially careful. Possible safety precautions could include the following:

- Never work alone in confined spaces unless there is an entry supervisor.

- Do not work alone with dangerous equipment or tools unless you have been properly trained.
- Talk to your boss and coworkers about where you will be working.

- Make sure you have a method of communication with your boss or coworkers with either a cellphone or other effective communication system.
 - Always keep your cell phone charged and have important numbers stored.

- If you will be working outside, you must remember to take all the required shade and water breaks to avoid heat illness.

- If possible, work in areas that are visible to others from a distance.
- Before starting your tasks, and throughout the task, pay attention to your surroundings to assess any potential hazards.
- If you will be driving, have a clear travel plan and make sure others are aware of this plan.
 - Vehicles should be well-maintained and complete with an emergency kit.
- Employees who work alone in public may not carry weapons with them and should leave or call for help immediately if they feel threatened in any way.

CONCLUSION

Lone workers should keep in mind that their jobs may be made more dangerous simply because they are by themselves. Do not work alone unless you understand the risks relating to your specific job and the safety procedures you can do to reduce those risks.
