

Capitol Connection Q&A for Contractors
By Shauna Krause, President, Capitol Services, Inc.

As Bob Dylan sings, 'the times they are a changing' but contractor licensing law isn't getting any easier! In our pandemic times knowing who, when and where you can work is critical, we 'dig' into an electrical question and share warning to all of strong arm 'thugs' posing as contractors...

Q: We currently have a "C-10" (Electrical) Contractors license in CA. We had some issues with our license come up recently, and in speaking with our attorney he informed us that we shouldn't be doing trenching with our "C-10" license. I am surprised by this as we have always done trenching when doing our electrical projects.

A: "C-10" electrical contractors can perform incidental trenching for the placement of conduit and wiring on their projects.

Q: We are going to be forming a new Limited Liability Company (LLC) and we will need a Contractor's License. Our attorney is in the process of putting together the Operating Agreement and a couple of the Partners do not want their name associated with the Contractor's License. Will the Secretary of State or CSLB require that we furnish them with our agreement?

A: No, the Operating Agreement does not need to be filed with either the Secretary of State or the CSLB. The Operating Agreement should be maintained in the office where the company's records are kept. The documents the CSLB requires that you file with the Secretary of State are the Articles of Organization followed by a Statement of Information with the Secretary of State prior to issuing a Contractor's License.

With stay at home rules, to paraphrase Dylan's work again, 'blowing in the wind' so to speak, contractors can get the latest on construction industry issues, rules and workplace requirements online at https://www.cslb.ca.gov/About_us/COVID-19.aspx

Use the CSLB link to research or at need call us for immediate assistance with licensing or other issues at Capitol Services, Inc.

Unfortunately, as in other disasters, scammers are out looking for easy money posing as contractors in this pandemic, according to the Board, "...watch out for door-to-door scammers as many homeowners shelter-in-place and practice social distancing safety measures. Earlier this month, Butte County deputies arrested three suspects from the United Kingdom who deputies say were targeting seniors in a paving scam.

Butte deputies say the scammers followed a common scenario used by transient criminals who travel from out of state to try and scam Californians. These three allegedly claimed they were working for a paving company named "A-1 Asphalt Company" and had leftover materials from another project and would give homeowners a great deal to sealcoat their asphalt driveway." While this occurred in Butte County suspects are also linked to scams in several surrounding counties.

And the Board warns consumers they can be dangerous to hire, "Transient criminals often move around in large groups, so it's likely these aren't the only ones targeting homeowners through the northern Sacramento Valley right now.

Seniors should be especially careful, as they are often targeted in door-to-door scams. Many suspects also strong-arm unsuspecting seniors to go to the bank and take out money to pay them."

Contractors are urged to report anyone believed to be involved in these scams to local law enforcement. Deputies and SWIFT enforcement cuffed three in Butte County now awaiting trial.

While knowledge is power, knowing where to go for the answers is half the battle. Office of Emergency Services

950 Maidu Avenue, Suite 130
Nevada City, CA 95959

For Immediate Release: July 15, 2020

County of Nevada Office of Emergency Services Providing No Cost
Personal Protective Equipment (PPE) to Small Businesses

PPE requests must be made in advance: <https://bit.ly/SmallBusinessPPERequestForm>

Nevada City, CA—The County of Nevada Office of Emergency Services (OES) is offering local small business owners, with 25 employees or less, a 30-day supply of masks and hand sanitizer for each employee at no cost. This personal protective equipment (PPE) has been made available to California small businesses through the California Governor’s Office of Emergency Services (CalOES) in collaboration with the Office of the Small Business Advocate (CalOSBA).

Local organizations in Western Nevada County partnering to assist with distribution include the Economic Resource Council, Grass Valley Downtown Association, Nevada City Chamber of Commerce, Nevada County Realtors Association, Nevada County Tech Connection, Nevada Union Athletics, and Rotary International.

Fifteen pallets of PPE, including 2,600 gallons of hand sanitizer and 314,000 disposable surgical masks, have been delivered and will be distributed to the small business community on Tuesday, July 21 through Thursday, July 23 at the County’s former Corporation Yard near the Nevada County Airport. PPE is enroute to Truckee and additional details will be provided soon for small businesses in Eastern Nevada County.

“With COVID-19 cases on the rise in Nevada County, it is increasingly important that small business employees have the equipment they need to protect others and themselves. Thanks to CalOES, we are pleased to help distribute this PPE, which will help offset the cost that small businesses are shouldering to keep the community safe and their doors open,” says Paul Cummings, Nevada County OES Program Manager.

To request PPE, small business owners must complete an online application in advance in order to expedite the processing and distribution of PPE. Please use this link to apply:
<https://bit.ly/SmallBusinessPPERequestForm>.

After completing the online PPE request form, small businesses should print the first page of their confirmation email to serve as a receipt. The printed receipt will be exchanged for the PPE. Small businesses may send a family member, volunteer, or employee as a proxy to pick up the protective equipment. OES recommends completing the form right away as this opportunity is available while supplies last, July 21-23.

OES seeks volunteers to assist with the distribution in Grass Valley. Folks willing to work a 3.5-hour shift should sign up online at Connecting Point’s Volunteer Hub here: <https://bit.ly/PPEVolunteer>.

Cal/OSHA Urges Employers to Follow the State's Guidance on Protecting Workers from COVID-19

Oakland—Cal/OSHA is urging all employers in California to carefully review and follow the state's COVID-19 workplace safety and health guidance to ensure their workers are protected from the virus. The guidance will help employers comply with their obligations to implement effective measures to train and protect employees at each worksite.

“Protecting employees from workplace hazards is not only required by law, it is also the right thing to do and an essential part of stopping the spread of the virus,” said Cal/OSHA Chief Doug Parker. “We’ve designed guidance documents for more than 30 industries so employers have a roadmap.”

Existing regulations require employers to implement effective measures to protect employees from worksite hazards, including recognized health hazards such as COVID-19. Employers must take steps to:

- Modify work or the worksite to allow people to be at least six feet apart or install effective barriers where that is not feasible.
- Provide workers enough time and supplies to disinfect common surfaces.
- Encourage workers to wash their hands frequently in accordance with CDC guidelines, and provide enough time and supplies so they can do it properly.
- Provide employees with cloth face coverings or allow them to use their own and reimburse them for the cost.
- Screen workers for COVID-19 symptoms before they start work,
- Have workers stay home if they feel ill and inform them about sick leave benefits.

Employers in businesses that interact with the public must follow the latest public health orders and ensure a safe workspace to protect workers and customers. In response to an increased number of COVID-19 cases, on July 13 Governor Gavin Newsom and the California

Department of Public Health issued an expanded statewide order on indoor closures to slow the spread of the disease.

Workers and customers should use face coverings at all times in accordance with the latest public health order. If employers are moving worksites outdoors, they must account for new hazards such as heat illness, moving vehicles and proper illumination for those working at night.

Cal/OSHA's COVID-19 related resources include multilingual guidelines, checklists and videos.

Cal/OSHA helps protect workers from health and safety hazards on the job in almost every workplace in California. Employers and workers who have questions or need assistance with workplace health and safety programs can call Cal/OSHA's Consultation Services Branch at 800-963-9424.

Complaints about workplace safety and health hazards can be filed confidentially with Cal/OSHA district offices. Employees with work-related questions or complaints may contact DIR's Call Center in English or Spanish at 844-LABOR-DIR (844-522-6734).

Contact: Erika Monterroza / Frank Polizzi, Communications@dir.ca.gov, (510) 286-1161.

The California Department of Industrial Relations, established in 1927, protects and improves the health, safety, and economic well-being of over 18 million wage earners, and helps their employers comply with state labor laws. DIR is housed within the Labor & Workforce Development Agency. CONFLICT: REMAINING CALM DURING CONFRONTATION

INTRODUCTION

No matter what industry you work in, it can be safely said that at some point you will be confronted. This is especially true of those who work in public places and interact with strangers. It will be beneficial in these instances if you have properly prepared and know techniques that can be used to diffuse a situation.

PREPARE

Confrontation is not always a bad thing, because non-aggressive confrontation may be used as a tool to come to a mutual agreement. In order to participate in constructive confrontation of this nature, you must first prepare yourself.

- Know your position.
- Mentally prepare information to be able to effectively communicate later. Make key points of your argument.
- Sometimes when the confrontation is work related, you must also be familiar with any state or federal laws, company policies, or other guidelines of behavior as they relate to the subject.

REMAIN CALM

Throughout any encounter, the most important skill for employees to have is to remain calm. When done consistently, this may prevent a confrontation from escalating.

- Breathe slowly and deeply. This will lower your heartbeat and blood pressure, and decrease the amount of adrenaline running through your body.
- Do not take anything the other person says personally.
- Avoid becoming emotional, defensive, or irrational.

COMMUNICATE EFFECTIVELY

- Share facts instead of emotions to prevent making the conversation emotionally charged.
- Be concise.
- Speak slowly and calmly.
- Use statements that force the other person to analyze their behavior. A calmly asked question such as “Are you threatening me?” may help the other person to notice that they are acting aggressively.

CONFLICT: REMAINING CALM DURING CONFRONTATION

SIGNS OF AGGRESSION

Educate yourself on the early stages of violent behavior and have a plan of action in the case of a hostile situation. Pay attention to indicators that the other person's aggression is escalating, such as:

- Tense muscles
- Pacing
- Defensive or aggressive posture
- Vocalized threats
- Darting or widening of the eyes
- Clenched fists
- Flushed face

CONCLUSION

Tense situations do not have to escalate into dangerous situations. The above methods may be implemented to remain calm, but if they do not work, it is essential to leave the scene.

Do not risk your health and safety trying to prove a point!
